Prelab 1:
Measurement and Measurement Error

PHYS 1320
Fall 2015
Due at the beginning of class.

1) What is the difference between accuracy and precision and why is this difference significant?

2) What distinguishes a random error from a systematic error?

3) What is the point of making multiple measurements of the same quantity before making a final statement about the numerical value of that quantity?